FBI finds rape suspects in Alabama

by Valerie Ciptak
staff reporter

Two fugitives sought in the alleged kidnapping and rape of a University coed on Oct. 26 were found in Birmingham, Ala., according to FBI authorities.

Troy Hill, formerly of 1375 Grand Ave., Toledo, and Patrick Henry, formerly of 1740 Macomber St., Toledo, were arrested at 9 a.m. Friday in a Lamar County residence. The two men were in their beds at the home of a possible acquaintance or relative, according to Doug Domin, special agent of the FBI office in Toledo.

The agency joined state and local authorities in the search on Dec. 10 when U.S. Magistrate James Carr in Toledo granted federal warrants for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, Domin said.

BILL BESS, director of Public Safety at the University, said the FBI's involvement followed suspicion that the men had fled the state.

Local authorities are seeking extradition of the suspects while they are held without bail at the Jefferson County jail in Birmingham.

Wood County Prosecutor Betty Montgomery said there is usually no opposition to extradition, and if the suspects are extradited within a few days, the men would immediately be transported back to Wood County.

Henry and Hill, along with a third suspect, Lamont Walker, of 1634 Vance St., Toledo, were indicted by a grand jury on kidnapping and rape charges Nov. 8.

While Walker was apprehended and placed in Wood County jail on Oct. 28, Henry and Hill escaped on foot after a high speed car chase with local police the night of the alleged rape, Bess said.

A grand jury said there was insufficient evidence to indict Floyd Boatman, the fourth man allegedly at the scene of the crime.

Domin said the FBI doesn't know if the owner of the Birmingham residence knew Henry and Hill were fugitives.

Montgomery said that housing fugitives may or may not be a felony in Alabama as it is in Ohio.

Abortion decision observed

Marches, rally planned to mark anniversary

by The Associated Press

Abortion opponents held demonstrations in several cities over the weekend, gearing up for a protest in Washington this week to mark the 13th anniversary of the Supreme Court ruling legalizing abortion.

Pro-choice activists also planned to mark the anniversary, including a "back alley" rally in Charleston, W.Va., today aimed at recalling the days before the Jan. 22, 1973, Roe vs. Wade ruling.

Anti-abortion protests were held in Dallas and in Providence, R.I. on Sunday and in Birmingham, Ala.; Madison, Wis.; Austin and Beaumont, Texas; Montpelier, Vt.; and Concord, N.H., on Saturday.

In Birmingham, a Catholic priest on probation for damaging abortion clinics joined some 3,000 anti-abortion demonstrators marching past several Need a paint job?

Bowling Green has been known for innovative parties. A party last Saturday at the Chub Club at 521 Thurston was no exception. They threw a car painting party to initiate the new semester. Here, Jim Dahlin, junior sports administration major and Darin Banks, freshman computer science major display their artistic talents.

Court: Messner guilty of charge

by Brian R. Ball
staff reporter

A former University student was found guilty of aggravated vehicular homicide after pleading no contest during his arraignment Friday in Wood County Common Pleas Court.

Mark Messner, of Orange, Ohio, was found guilty of the fourth-degree felony stemming from the fatal, car-pedestrian accident on Dec. 7. The pedestrian, Daniel Sipes, a business law major from Marion, Ohio, died three days later at the Medical College of Ohio in Toledo.

Messner accepted a bill of information from the prosecutor's office in lieu of a grand jury indictment on Jan. 10.

Wood County Common Pleas Judge Gale Williamson set a Feb. 26 sentencing date and released Messner on his own recognizance during a pre-sentencing investigation by the adult probation department.

Williamson said since aggravated vehicular homicide is a fourth-degree felony and Messner did not have a past criminal record, "it was safe to release him on his own recognizance."

ALAN MAYBERRY, an assistant county prosecutor, said the pre-sentence investigation also looks into a person's criminal record and other background information before reporting their recommendation to the judge.

Aggravated vehicular homicide carries a minimum prison sentence of 1½ years to five years and a maximum sentence of three years to five years, according to the county prosecutor's office. A fine of $2,500 and a license suspension for 30 days to three years is also possible.

However, Williamson said the offense is probationable as there is not any mandatory sentence set by law.

King's vision celebrated across U.S.

by The Associated Press

Protests mingled with parades yesterday on the first federal holiday in honor of Martin Luther King Jr., a day in which ironic touches measured how close the country has come to achieving the slain civil rights leader's dream.

Parades and gatherings honored King in Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Honolulu, among others. Church bells pealed in Minnesota, Illinois and Rhode Island, and radio stations around the nation's tiniest state joined broadcasting portions of King's "I Have a Dream" speech.

Five hundred blacks gathered on the Capitol steps at Montgomery, Ala., where Gov. George Wallace had vowed "segregation now, segregation forever" in 1963, to a proclamation honoring King.

Wallace, recently released from a hospital, did not attend the ceremony, where press secretary Bill Joe Camp read his proclamation.

IN BIRMINGHAM, Ala., where King led marchers against fire hoses and police dogs in 1963, a seven-foot statue of King was unveiled in a city park.

By federal law, the third Monday of January is a day in honor of King, who was born Jan. 15, 1929, and assassinated April 4, 1968, in Memphis, Tenn. The day is a legal holiday in 27 states, including three which also honor Confederate generals. Two other states have a holiday on Jan. 15.

Yesterday's protests focused on states and communities that did not observe the holiday.

In Memphis, 300 people gathered in the pot-holed parking lot of the Lorraine Motel where King was murdered. The motel is now owned by a civic group.

After King's son Dexter laid a wreath at his father's tomb in Atlanta, the president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference challenged the nation to move forward toward complete racial equality.

"In the name of Martin, we ain't going back," said the Rev. Joseph Lowery, who heads the organization which King founded. "We've come too far, we've worked too strenuously, we've marched too long, we've prayed too hard, we've wept too bitterly, we've bled too profusely and we've died too young."

VANDALS IN Buffalo, N.Y., painted a bust of King white Sunday night, but city parks crews cleaned it in time for holiday celebrations.

United Nations Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar announced yesterday that he had accepted a request by African delegates to make King's birthday a U.N. holiday, beginning next year.

Absentee rates were high in Tulsa, Okla., as black students protested the city's decision to hold classes to make up for a bad-weather day in December.

"We are protesting the fact that the city and schools refuse to honor the first legal holiday to honor a black American," said the Rev. Lawrence Lakey, director of the Tulsa Urban League.

Harry Belafonte and Bill Cosby were co-hosts last night for a three-city celebration. The segment at New York's Radio City Music Hall was headlined by Ashford & Simpson, Ruben Blades, Tito Puente, Bette Midler, Billy Joel and Al Jarreau.

New associate pastor named to University parish

Father Joe Steinbauer

BG News/Joe Phelan

by Jared O. Wadley
staff reporter

Incoming freshmen and transfer students aren't the only new faces in Bowling Green this semester.

The Rev. Joe Steinbauer has been chosen as the new associate pastor at St. Thomas More University Parish.

Steinbauer succeeds the Rev. Michael Tremmel, who left St. Thomas More to work in Zimbabwe with his mission team.

Steinbauer said he talked with Tremmel informally about the community and decided to apply for the job.

The Rev. Herb Weber, pastor of St. Thomas Moore, said Steinbauer was chosen due to the parish's requests.

THE STAFF and parishioners had the chance to make a list of qualifications they wanted the new priest to have.

"We told the personnel board that works with the Bishop what kind of priest we would like for the job," said Weber. "The Bishop made his final decision (after a six-week process)."

After several meetings with the parish staff, Steinbauer said the group had a great deal of friendliness, professionalism and organization. He described the community as "kind and vibrant."

"I'm very eager to become a part of the community, but I'm not sure what to expect," he said.

Steinbauer previously studied American Church History at Catholic University in Washington, D.C.

Before that he worked at St. Patrick of Heatherdowns in Toledo.

Area man turns car into taxi service

Richard Ramos

BG News/Jacque Pearson

by Zora Johnson
staff reporter

Getting around Bowling Green might be a little easier because of the efforts of a local entrepreneur and his 1977 Chevrolet.

Richard Ramos, a 30-year resident of Bowling Green, received a license to turn his car into a cab and started Ramos Taxi Service last June.

"I started the service because I was on unemployment for a while," he said. "I inquired around and found that there were a lot of people who were very interested in having the service."

The brown sedan may not look like the stereotypical yellow or checkered taxicab, but that hasn't affected business. The number of riders has increased enough for him to hire another driver.

"It started out like any other business, kind of slow," he said. "I ran the business alone at first, working 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. But it got to be a little too much for me to handle, so I hired someone else."

THE MAJORITY of business comes from students, he said.

"I take a lot of students to town or to work," he said.

"Weekends are my heaviest time, but they especially use my service on rainy and cold days."

Ramos charges $1 to make an initial call anywhere in Bowling Green. Cost for each additional mile is $1.30, he said. Additional passengers pay reduced rates.

"The city sets the rates for me, and any rate increases that I want to apply for have to be approved by the city," he said. "I have to justify any increase that I want to make."

But starting a taxi service has had some setbacks, Ramos said.

"I have had a couple of incidents where I have picked up a person and they have jumped out and run before they paid me," he said. "Also there are times when I can't take care of demand with only one car."

Service is mostly confined to the city limits, but as soon as he gets enough capital, Ramos hopes to purchase another taxi.

"Right now, I'm not really making money, I'm just staying one step behind the bills," he said. "But in the future, I am hoping to have another car, which will allow me to expand my service outside of Bowling Green."

BG councilwoman runs for Ohio House

by Mike McIntyre
managing editor

Bowling Green councilwoman Joyce Kepke has announced her candidacy for the Fifth District seat, representing Wood County, in the Ohio House of Representatives.

Kepke said she is seeking the endorsement of the Wood County Democratic Party. She will run in the Democratic primary election May 6.

If Kepke gains the Democratic nomination, she will probably run against incumbent Republican Randy Gardner of Bowling Green for the Fifth District seat.

Gardner said yesterday that he will officially announce his candidacy Thursday night. He was appointed representative last November when Robert Brown of Perrysburg vacated the position to join the Celeste cabinet.

Gardner said he doesn't expect any competition in the Republican primary but said it is a possibility that someone else will file for the primary election before the Feb. 20 deadline.

Kepke said she has heard rumors that other people will be seeking the Democratic nomination, but said she is aware of no announced candidates.

She decided to run because of her experience with Bowling Green City Council and the League of Women Voters, she said.

KEPKE HAS been a member of city council for eight years and is the former president of the local League of Women Voters.

"In my role at city council, I became quite aware of the local impact of what happens in the state legislature," she said. "I thought maybe it was appropriate to work on that level."

Kepke said she will also bring a great deal of financial experience to the job. She has been chair of the council's finance committee for the past six years.

She said the fact that she is an elected member of council is important. Gardner, former Wood County Republican chairman, has never been elected to a post.

"It is very important to have actually gone to the voters. I have done that for the last eight years," she said. "I have had a lot of experience within government that he (Gardner) has not had."

Police investigate robbery

by Valerie Ciptak
staff reporter

Campus police are seeking a man who robbed a University woman early Thursday morning.

Police reports say the woman was approached by a man between the Home Economics building and McFall Center at about 12:05 a.m. She was walking toward inner campus when he approached her from the front and knocked her down. When her purse fell to the ground, the man punched her in the stomach and told her to shut up.

The woman said she scratched the left side of the man's face while trying to resist the attack. He shuffled through the purse, emptied her wallet and threw it into the grass outside McFall Center and ran toward the Union.

The woman described the man as black, about 5 feet 9 inches tall, with light brown hair and medium build. He wore a gray shirt with a white turtleneck and may have had a silver pierced earring in his right ear.

The composite picture is not completely accurate because it lacks a dimple in the chin and a longer jawline, the woman said.

She apparently suffered no injuries, but said her wallet was missing $50.

Anyone with information about the incident should call campus police at 372-2346.

Education majors to meet tougher teaching standards

by Patricia Ritter
staff reporter

Education majors here won't have many problems meeting the upgraded standards passed last month by the State Board of Education, the University's top education adviser said last week.

"From my initial look, most of our students won't see a great change due to the standards," said Jane Wood, director of education/program advisement. "The caliber of our students is good."

The standards, adopted by the State Board of Education last month, require potential Ohio teachers to pass certification tests, serve internships and continue their education.

The Ohio Teacher Education and Certification Advisory Commission worked 16 months on the action and included input from teachers in making their decision.

The standards will begin to affect future teachers in 1987, which will be the first year newly-graduated teachers must complete a one-year internship during their first year of teaching.

Potential teachers who graduate in 1991 will be the first group that must pass a state certification test before they can become Ohio teachers.

ONLY secondary teachers are required to test for state certification, presently. Other instructors, including elementary teachers, only need to meet University and State course requirements.

Wood said that students presently enrolled in the College of Education will not be required to meet the new standards unless they delay graduation.

"We don't want students thinking 'I've gone through this program and now I'm going to get caught,'" she said.

The standards also emphasize revision in the areas of recruitment and selection of teachers, academic preparation and professional training, lifelong learning, state examination for certification, support for new teachers and approval of preparation programs for educators.

State Board of Education President Wayne Shaffer said the standards are positive steps for education in Ohio.

"The revised standards will allow Ohio to keep its status of having the best teachers in the nation," he said.

ROBERT BOWERS, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, said last week that the standards should not deter students from going into education.

"I think they will be encouraged," he said. "College and universities will be expected to recruit individuals from diverse backgrounds who have the potential of becoming outstanding teachers. That can only help the profession."

However, Frankie Agresta, senior elementary education major and president of the Ohio Student Education Association here, said the standards could keep students from becoming education majors.

"It's a good attempt to upgrade teachers, but I'm afraid the certification could discourage some students," Agresta said.

Bowers said teachers already in the profession will not be affected by the standards for a few years, because the new rules allow them to renew their current certificate under the old standards. After that they will have to study in college classes or workshops to keep and upgrade provisional and professional certificates.

National march planned

Anti-racists invited to rally in Philly on Feb. 15

by Shelly Trusty

Anti-racist individuals are invited to Philadelphia to take part in a march next month against racism, racist violence and oppression.

The National Mobilization Against Racism, a non-profit organization based in Philadelphia, is planning a national march against racism on Saturday, Feb. 15 in Philadelphia.

Berta Joubert, coordinator of NMAR, said the organization was formed in response to racist violence in Philadelphia.

"We created the organization the week before Christmas because there was something in the news every day about some kind of racist violence," she said in a phone interview yesterday.

"There were several groups here who wanted to march against racism, but they were kept from doing so by right-wing racist groups. We decided the only solution was to call for a national march," Joubert said.

Joubert said the incidence of racial violence has increased because of the policies of the Reagan administration.

"Reagan has been cutting back on social programs and he has come out against affirmative action and women's rights issues. This has given right-wing racist groups the advantage and racist attacks have been stepping up," Joubert said.

SHE SAID there have been several racist attacks in South Philadelphia.

In early November, a black family and an interracial couple moved into an all white neighborhood, Joubert said.

"A group of racists got into the house of the interracial couple and broke up their oil pipes, their heating pipes, destroyed several cupboards and threw cans of gasoline around the house. Fortunately the power was turned off on time and the house did not catch fire," she said.

On Nov. 20, about 400 people demonstrated in front of the black family's home, she said. Joubert added the black family had to leave the house because they had a seven-year-old child.

"The little child was so afraid she wouldn't go outside or even look out the windows because the crowd was throwing bottles and firing bee-bee shots at the windows," Joubert noted.

"Even though there was a 24-hour police watch of the house it was burnt down a couple days later," she said. "They had left the house, so no one was hurt, but they lost all their possessions."

SHE ALSO cited examples of Puerto Rican children at Penn Treaty High School who are harassed and sometimes beaten on their way to and from school.

"We must unite against racism. We (NMAR) feel that if we don't deal with racism we can't deal with anti-war, unions or politics. We must be united first, united against racism," Joubert said.

One of the main groups of NMAR is the All-People's Congress. Joubert said they are a broad based organization who are against racism and oppression.

"The organization has people of all types; black, white, abled, disabled, young, old, gay and straight," she said.

Anyone who is interested in joining in the march against racism can contact NMAR at 4206 Baltimore Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19140.

Abortion

abortion clinics.

The Rev. Edward Markley was given probation for smashing abortion equipment and was ordered to stay at least 500 yards from any clinic after a 1984 attack on the Birmingham Women's Clinic.

HE SAID after the march Saturday "abortion is just too horrible not to protest." When asked if he came within 500 yards of an abortion clinic Saturday, Markley told The Birmingham News, "Absolutely."

About 75 pro-choice demonstrators lined the street in front of one clinic on the anti-abortion march route. The only vocal exchange came when a pro-choice demonstrator yelled, "Father Markley go back to prison."

Jefferson County Deputy District Attorney Steve Mahon said he had received a phone call from "a person involved" and his office would investigate the complaint to determine whether Markley violated his probation.

Smaller protests Saturday in Madison, Wis.; Austin, Texas; and Concord, N.H., drew politicians touting their efforts to fight abortion, and on Sunday in Providence, R.I., Roman Catholic Bishop Louis Gelineau held a "Pro-Life Mass."

The Mass was a prelude to local activists' trip to Washington tomorrow for the "March for Life" which was expected to draw thousands to The Ellipse at noon.

Afghan guerillas need aid, Ohio representative says

WASHINGTON (AP) - The conflict in Afghanistan is taking a "horrible toll" on that country, and the United States must support the Afghan guerrillas fighting Soviet troops, an Ohio congressman said yesterday.

Fresh from a visit to Pakistan that included border stops at Afghan refugee camps, a hospital and meetings with Afghan guerrillas, Rep. Michael DeWine, R-Ohio, said people must become better informed about the situation.

"The war is taking a very horrible toll on Afghanistan," said DeWine. "They're (the guerrillas) getting hit very hard. These folks need something to fight them with."

An estimated 115,000 Soviet troops are in the southwest Asian country to help battle the Mujahedeen guerrillas, who are trying to overthrow the Marxist regime of Babrak Karmal. DeWine said he favors humanitarian aid for the rebels.

"We should do whatever we can to assist the Mujahedeen," he added. "We need to do whatever we can, short of sending U.S. personnel there."

The trip, organized by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, included stops in Pakistan, China, India, Thailand, Taiwan, Korea and the Philippines. DeWine, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, was accompanied by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah; Chic Hecht, R-Nev.; Rep. Robert Lagomarsino, R-Calif.; Rep. Jim Courter, R-N.J.; and several administration officials.

DEWINE SAID the rebel leaders described the chemical warfare in Afghanistan, the Soviet policy of bombing villages suspected of harboring rebels and the massive relocation of people.

The delegation also visited Cambodian border refugee camps in Thailand and met with major resistance leaders there.

In addition, the congressman stopped briefly in the Philippines but met with no government leaders.

DeWine said that if President Ferdinand Marcos fails to leave office in a peaceful, democratic fashion when the time comes, it could mean violence and the emergence of a leader who would order the U.S. military to leave the Philippines.

"I think Marcos' days - one way or another - are numbered," said DeWine, citing Marcos' health and other factors. "I think it's in the best interest of the United States for Marcos to pass from the scene."

Some senior officials in the State Department and Pentagon worry that Marcos might try to prevent Corazon Aquino, his opponent in the Feb. 7 elections, from taking office by seeking to rig the balloting, cancel it or ignore its results by declaring martial law.

SOME U.S. OFFICIALS have privately made clear their preference for Mrs. Aquino, giving her the best chance of rallying public support to blunt a growing communist insurgency and keep the Philippines safe for the major U.S. military bases at Subic Bay and Clark Field, the largest American bases outside the United States.

In China, the delegation met with Hu Qili, a Politburo member who some feel may succeed Premier Deng Xiaoping.

"I was a little surprised about how open the Chinese were in stating their fear of the Soviet Union," said DeWine. "They stated very clearly that that's who their enemy is."

State budgets indicate boom and bust in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) - After a wave of tax cutting last year, few states are looking for more reductions this year and legislatures in some states are facing no-growth budgets or spending cuts in the face of economic hard times.

An Associated Press survey of state legislatures convening this month shows that state coffers are reflecting the unevenness of the economy. Booming states like Massachusetts and California are flush with surpluses, while farm-belt, oil-producing and other economically hard-hit states are looking for ways to cut spending.

"It's a very bleak picture. It makes me depressed to review it," said state Sen. Hinton Mitchem of Alabama, where Gov. George Wallace is proposing a 4.5 percent cut in spending by most state agencies in the budget for fiscal 1987.

"We will lose 10,000 state employees, and that means a blow to services," said Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards. "The poor will suffer, the elderly, the mentally ill - all those who can least afford to lose services."

But in California the state's general fund budget is in for a 7 percent increase, prompting Gov. George Deukmejian to boast, "California has gone from IOU to A-OK."

OTHER ISSUES are also on the front burners. More than a dozen states have proposals to deal with the growing crisis in liability insurance, such as by limiting damage claims, and many states are considering action on prisons to relieve crowding or otherwise improve conditions.

Money, though, is the overriding issue in the statehouses. Searching for money-raising alternatives to more taxes, Florida, Louisiana and West Virginia are considering allowing gambling casinos. Kansas is considering legalizing betting on horse racing.

Nationwide, the states are projecting at least $2.8 billion in total surpluses, with California's $1.16 billion the largest. Others include Massachusetts at $500 million, Illinois with $200 million, New Jersey with $190 million and Virginia with $302 million.

But projected deficits amount to at least $1.7 billion. Half that is in Minnesota, with other big shortfalls forecast in Florida, Kansas, Oklahoma and Wisconsin, and smaller ones in South Carolina and Utah.

In Oklahoma, its revenues declining with the price of oil, Gov. George Nigh has proposed a budget calling for 9 percent cuts in most state agencies. This comes after two years of record tax increases.

IN SOME CASES, tight budgets directly follow enactment of tax cuts. Last year, 20 states lowered taxes worth more than $1 billion, according to Steven Gold, fiscal director for the National Conference of State Legislatures.

Among them was Minnesota, which cut its income tax 16 percent, or about $915 million. This year, Minnesota has the biggest projected budget shortfall among the states - as much as $915 million.

Gov. Rudy Perpich says the state will dip into the $450 million it had socked away and will make up the rest through budget cuts.

Wisconsin, which reduced tax rates last year, faces a $345 million shortage when its fiscal year ends June 30. Gov. Anthony Earl is expected to propose spending cuts but no new taxes.

Other states facing budget cuts include Hawaii, Iowa, Kansas and Louisiana; no-growth budgets are expected in Illinois and West Virginia.

Some tax changes have been proposed.

Kansas Gov. John Carlin has proposed a 1 percentage point boost in the sales tax. In Hawaii, there's consensus for a hotel room tax. Excise taxes on gasoline or cigarettes are proposed in Colorado, Virginia and Washington.

IN CALIFORNIA, repeal or changes in the unitary tax on corporate profits is being proposed. Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Michigan, all with surpluses, may consider tax cuts. In New York, the second year of a major tax-cut program will bring about $1.1 billion in cuts, and while Gov. Mario Cuomo says there is no surplus, Republican legislators want to cut taxes more.

The likely loss of federal aid to states and cities is a worry in many states. In North Carolina, Gov. James Martin has imposed a slowdown in state hiring.

Mexican jails lenient, rep says

WASHINGTON (AP) - Anti-drug efforts in Mexico are so corrupt that a man jailed in the killing of a U.S. drug enforcement agent was allowed to dine openly at some of Mexico City's leading restaurants, a congressional delegation says.

Alleged drug trafficker Rafael Caro Quintero, implicated in last year's torture and killing of agent Enrique Camarena Salazar and his pilot, was freed to attend a lavish birthday party in his honor at a hotel and also had been seen dining at an exclusive Mexico City restaurant "with some federal officials," Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., said.

Rangel, chairman of the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, headed a delegation to Mexico that was told by U.S. agents and Mexican businessmen that Quintero was seen "on numerous occasions dining in fancy restaurants" while he was supposed to be in custody on murder charges.

Rangel, speaking Sunday to reporters upon his return to Andrews Air Force Base just outside Washington, said the delegation also was told that "over $600,000 was found in his (Caro Quintero's) jail cell, along with some guns," and he was often freed on weekends. He did not cite a source for this information.

"IT'S INTERESTING to note what a Mexican jail is," said Rangel. "You think it's a terrible place to be. Well, if you have money, it's not."

The six-member congressional delegation held hearings last week in El Paso, Tucson and San Diego on drug trafficking before their two-day trip to Mexico, where they met with Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid and Attorney General Sergio Garcia Ramirez.

Rangel said the bipartisan delegation was disappointed by what they described as a lack of cooperation by Mexican officials in eradicating the drug trade.

Rep. Frank Guarini, D-N.J. described the U.S.-Mexican border as "out of control," saying officials were unable to stem the increasing flow of narcotics across the border.

Soviets reunited with U.S. spouses

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) - A Massachusetts woman was reunited with her Soviet husband Sunday after a three-year separation, and two other Russian men prepared to join their American wives in the United States.

Edith Luthi, of Holliston, Mass., hugged her husband, Michael Iossel, after he arrived at the Frankfurt International Airport from Leningrad.

"I'm sorry, but you have to understand we don't want to talk to the press now," she said, smiling, as she helped her husband with his suitcases. "You have to let us get used to this."

"Thank you for being so understanding," the 31-year-old woman said later.

Iossel was accompanied by Leonid Ablavsky, who was to fly to the United States yesterday for a reunion with his wife, Robin Rubendunst of New York City's Brooklyn borough.

A THIRD SOVIET citizen, Alexi Lodisev, arrived in Frankfurt earlier Sunday from Moscow en route to a reunion with his wife, Sandra Gubin of Kalamazoo, Mich.

The three men are the latest Soviet citizens who have been allowed to rejoin family members in the West following the U.S.-Soviet summit in Geneva last November.

Ohio taxes help ease budget crunch

COLUMBUS (AP) - Improved economic conditions and increases in employer taxes have helped Ohio pay off more than half of a $1.849 billion debt that was incurred by the state's unemployment compensation system.

While the balance probably will not be paid until around 1990, state officials feel their progress is good, given the depth of the national recession earlier this decade.

State Budget Director William Shkurti estimates the total debt - $921 million - will be paid off by 1990, given current economic projections. Ohio Bureau of Employment Services officials say the interest-bearing portion of the debt, or $274 million, should be paid off in 1987.

Shkurti said that on top of employer assessments, $47.6 million was budgeted from general tax dollars for interest payments for the state fiscal year which ends June 30. For fiscal 1986-1987, the budget contains $120.6 million. In the following three years, Shkurti currently plans to propose $45.6 million, $21.9 million and $10.6 million, respectively.

OHIO AND OTHER so-called "debtor states" had to borrow from the federal government when steel industry and other layoffs sharply cut into state revenues in the early 1980s. In April 1982, federal officials started assessing 10 percent interest on new loans, but debts already on the books - representing funds obtained prior to 1982 - remained interest-free.

Ohio, like other similarly situated states, has sought to avoid interest by making higher payments and limiting new debt.

Michigan and Illinois have already paid off the debts on their interest-bearing loans. But Dixie Sommers, chief of labor marketing for the OBES, says that is because those states raised employer taxes higher than Ohio did under so-called solvency requirements in the 1982 federal act.

Michigan's total debt had peaked at $2.105 billion, compared to $1.849 billion for Ohio.

AS OF LAST November, Michigan still led the nation in its non-interest-bearing debt with $1.28 billion, followed by Pennsylvania, $1.25 billion, and Illinois, $1.13 billion.

Ohio's $921 million is fourth-highest among six states that still owe interest-bearing debt. The others are Louisiana, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and West Virginia.

Sommers credited some of the progress in retiring the debt to improved economic conditions, reflected in an 8.3 percent state unemployment rate last month compared with a high of 14.1 percent in January 1983. However, increases in employer taxes also have helped. They were last increased a year ago.

Last year, employers were assessed $1.029 billion, compared with $1.042 billion in 1984. In the same span, average weekly benefits rose from $141.71 to $147.01. Benefits vary broadly and depend on several factors, including numbers of dependents and the amount of salary being earned at the time of layoff.

Sommers attributed the slight drop in assessments and the increase in average benefits to a new merit rating plan. Under that plan, employers with below-average layoffs can earn rate reductions.

BG gymnast Mary Pat Farr performs on the balance beam during the Falcons 173.1-168 home-opening defeat of NIU Sunday. Teammate Shelley Staley finished second overall to lead BG to their first win of the season.

Gymnasts win behind Staley

by Jeff McSherry
sports reporter

What a difference a year, er, week can make.

This revamped version of the old sports adage may have been coined by Bowling Green's women's gymnastics team Sunday.

After a disappointing, season-opening loss to Kent State last week, the Falcons rebounded for their first win by downing Northern Illinois 173.1-168.

"We had a heckuva lot of improvement from our last meet," BG coach Charles Simpson said. "In fact, we scored 10 more points as a team (BG tallied only 163.3 versus KSU) this weekend, which is evidence of our quick turnaround."

The Jekyll-Hyde transformation, according to Simpson, was due for the most part, to a sort of negative tradition the Falcons unwittingly engage in every season.

"We typically have a poor meet after Christmas break," Simpson said. "But we talked about pride, determination, commitment, and desire during practice this week. Plus, the girls knew we were a better team (than last week)."

The BG tumblers even went full-go in their routines on Friday, the last practice of the week, which is usually just a walk-through. The extra work, however, apparently paid off for the Falcons on Sunday.

"We really needed to prepare for Northern Illinois," Simpson said. "They're a very strong team, but they're having the same problem we've had—staying healthy."

Going into the meet, BG knew it would be without the services of the injured Gretchen Van-Haltsma, Maria Dechiara, and Tiffany Kosmerl, who are key performers for the squad.

The Falcons, minus these experienced gymnasts, needed one of their tumblers to provide some direction and leadership, along with a strong performance, to do well against NIU.

"We needed a little push to get us going," Simpson said.

Not surprisingly, it was BG's Shelley Staley, a three-year letter winner, who came through against the Huskies. Who better than the team captain to have a strong showing in a critical meet to lift the confidence of her teammates?

Staley landed a second place tie in the vault with an 8.85 and a first in the floor exercise with a personal best of 9.25. Her floor routine came just moments after NIU's Darlene Davis' seemingly unbeatable 9.1.

Davis, however, won the uneven bars with a 9.0, barely edging Staley's 8.9, and the all-around competition with a 35.7, compared to Staley's second-place total of 35.45.

"Shelley deserves a tremendous amount of applause for scoring so well for us," Simpson said. "She also really helps keep the team going."

The next two finishers in the all-around were BG's Kris Byerly (34.5), who also won the balance beam with a personal best of 9.0, and Lisa Shulman (34.35). Shulman's all-around finish was aided by strong routines on the balance beam and the floor exercise, scoring 8.9 in each event.

Other solid outings were turned in by the Falcon's Julie Sobel, who won the vault with an 8.9, and Ellen DiCola's 8.8 performance on the floor exercise.

Despite the Falcon's pleasant win in the home opener, Simpson can still see the lady tumblers doing better in Friday's home meet against Valparaiso, which begins at 2 p.m.

Harper, Mast receive honors

Chosen players of the week

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Ron Harper of Miami University has been named Mid-American Conference men's basketball player of the week.

Caroline Mast of Ohio University has been named the MAC women's basketball player of the week.

Harper, a 6-foot-6 senior from Dayton, scored 27 points and had 12 rebounds in a 58-51 victory over Kent State, and scored 18 points and had 14 rebounds in a 73-59 victory over Ball State.

Mast, a 5-foot-11 senior from Coshocton, scored 34 points and grabbed six rebounds in an 86-69 victory over Ball State, and had 25 points and 17 rebounds in a 91-70 victory over Eastern Michigan.

Frosh Raupp, Kalish out for the season

Bowling Green freshmen Dan Raupp and Scott Kalish will be out the remainder of the season with injuries, according to Falcon basketball coach John Weinert.

Raupp, a center, injured his knee in practice yesterday and will undergo surgery tomorrow at Wood County Hospital to repair torn ligaments.

Kalish, a guard, suffered a separated shoulder in BG's loss at Toledo Saturday. He started the game, but was forced to leave after a collision with the Rockets' Gary Campbell.

The injuries leave the cagers with nine players on scholarship and 11 players on the squad.

"Dan and Scott both suffered injuries from freak accidents," Weinert said.

"Dan's injury is something that happens 1,000 times in practice."

Senior center Avon Davy has been out since preseason with a leg injury and junior guard Frank Booker was ruled academically ineligible last week.

Raupp, who is a 6-foot-8, has seen limited action this season, but was an all-Illinois special mention pick in high school. He was named one of the top 25 players in the Chicago area last season.

Kalish, a 5-8 fireplug, was a first-team all-Ohio pick last season at St. Ignace High School in Cleveland. He had started the last four games, three of them Falcon victories. He also had a 4.0 grade point average in his first semester at BG.

Falcon icers beat up on Buckeyes

by Karl Smith
ass't managing editor

Bowling Green may want to put ropes and turnbuckles around the hockey rink after the Falcons' weekend sweep of Ohio State.

After all, the Central Collegiate Hockey Association series was more a boxing and wrestling match than hockey. In fact, if Rodney Dangerfield would have been at the game, he undoubtedly would have said, "I went to the fights and a hockey game broke out."

The Falcons wound up with two TKO's, beating the Buckeyes in Columbus 5-3 Friday, and 9-7 at the Ice Arena Saturday.

"It was so untypical of our season, basing our victories on solid defense," BG coach Jerry York said. "When you get involved in a shoot-out, you can flip a coin to decide the winner."

The home win featured four disqualifications and 40 penalties, with each team being whistled for a dozen each in the first period. The penalties were equal after one period, but the Falcons took a 6-1 lead into the second period.

BG SCORED six goals in the first 10:15. Jamie Wansbrough broke the Falcon career goal-scoring record with 2:50 gone in the first period, followed by two Iain Duncan scores and goals by OSU's Don Perkins (on top) and BG's Brian Meharry had to be separated by the referees in Saturday night's 9-7 Falcon win in the BG Ice Arena. Both players were handed game disqualification penalties in the game which also featured 40 penalties.

Scott Paluch, Clarke Pineo and Paul Ysebaert.

OSU's Joe Tracy connected on a power-play goal for the only first period Buckeye score.

"The first period was perhaps our finest hockey of the year, a lot of great things happened during that 20-minute stretch," York said.

The disqualification of BG's Brian Meharry and OSU's Don Perkins marred the period of model hockey. The two left the game with 9:54 left in the period for fighting. Buckeye Kevin Burden and Falcon Greg Parks earned the same penalties for a similar incident in the third period. The ejected players must sit out the next game.

"Now we're going to miss both of those guys for the next game and that's what really hurts," York said. "It got us out of our flow and it hurt them that Perkins was out, he's a great player for them."

THE BUCKEYES rebounded from their shoddy performance in the opening period with three second-period goals. Dan Wilhelm, Jeff Madill and Andy Forcey did the honors for OSU while Ysebaert netted the only BG goal, cutting the Falcon lead to 7-4.

Buckeye assistant coach Frances LaChappelle said that his team's improved performance wasn't initiated by a tongue-lashing between periods. "We didn't tell them much, surprisingly," he said. "We just

York is winningest BG hockey coach

by Tom Skernivitz
sports reporter

Amidst the carnival atmosphere and record setting performances in Saturday night's game between Bowling Green and Ohio State, Falcons' head coach Jerry York must have taken a moment or two to bask in the limelight.

After all, BG's 9-7 win over the never-say-die Buckeyes enabled York to win his 161st game for the Falcons and eclipse the school record for most coaching victories previously held by former BG and current Michigan State head coach Ron Mason.

In a community where hockey reigns supreme from those who just cut teeth to those who are long of tooth, York's feat is truly one of the biggest moments in BG history.

But the milestone achieved by the modest coach from Watertown, Mass., almost went unnoticed.

Six Falcon goals in the first 11 minutes, 40 penalties with several fights, and senior Jamie Wansbrough's school record 119th goal to open the game captured most of the attention of the BG Ice Arena crowd.

Even the most knowledgeable fan may not have realized the significance of the Falcons' 22nd win of the season. But as York made his way from the bench to the locker room, the public address announcer pointed out the 39-year-old coach's accomplishment, sending the near capacity crowd of 3,442 to their feet in recognition.

Perhaps, then, York felt the rewards of seven years of coaching at BG which have included three Central Collegiate Hockey Association titles and the national championship in 1984.

"It was great. We just have a great community here," York said. "Too often coaches alienate themselves with the fans. We want to be as cooperative and positive as possible to keep our program successful."

York, never one to brag about anything except his team, downplayed the personal aspect of the victory and said he was just glad to still be at the helm for the Falcons.

"I'm more excited and proud of the fact that I've been here seven years. Nowadays, coaches get hired and fired in two years," York said. "Wins don't affect me that much. Longevity and the whole concept of the team is what counts the most."

Motycka powers women's victory

Two games in one. That's what fans got when they clicked the turnstiles at Centennial Hall Saturday.

Bowling Green's women's basketball team came from behind to topple the University of Toledo, 72-65, but the Falcons did it the hard way.

BG fell behind early, never holding a lead in the first half. But Falcon coach Fran Voll must have passed out the Wheaties before his team took to the hardwood in the second half.

BG scored 12 unanswered points in the first five minutes of the second half to take a 41-36 lead.

"I knew they would be tough. They did a real nice job on offense," UT coach Tim Selgo said. "But when they scored those first 12 points, that was the ball game right there."

Jackie Motycka blazed the comeback trail for the Falcons. The freshman hit her first seven shots of the second half, en route to scoring a career-high 26 points.

"Every player wants to stay consistent, but there are nights when you feel something special, sort of red hot," Motycka said. "When that happens, you better help the team out."

"I got a lot of good passes underneath the basket," she said. "If you get good passes, there is no reason to miss the shots."

Selgo said he was impressed by Motycka's court presence.

"Motycka is a fine player, and she shows a lot of poise for a freshmen," Selgo said. "She's going to be tough to stop for four years."

Toledo's Liz Meiring knew the feeling in the first half, as she tossed in 11 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. But the Rocket cager managed just two points in the second half, while being marked closely by BG's Charlene Parrish.

"Motycka is a fine player, and she shows a lot of poise for a freshmen. She's going to be tough to stop for four years."

— Tim Selgo

"We had a mental lapse in the second half," Meiring said. "They had the edge, and they kept coming at us. We couldn't generate any offense."

Parrish knew her assignment going into the game.

"I knew Meiring was an important part of Toledo's game plan," Parrish said. "I knew someone had to defend her, and I wanted (the assignment)."

But Parrish credits BG's team defense, which is number one in the conference, for stopping Meiring.

"Our whole defense put pressure on their wings, so they couldn't get any good passes into her," Parrish said.

Parrish started in place of captain Joelyn Shoup, who suffered an ankle injury last week against Eastern Michigan.

"Everybody seemed a little upset without Jo in there," Motycka said. "It took the first half for our team to get to know their assignments."

The Falcons opened up nine-point advantages on two occasions, but the Rockets battled back to lead 63-61 with under three minutes to play.

"When Toledo did make a run at us, our girls did a good job of holding them off," Voll said. "They came after us with some pressure, but Sheri Voyles and Paulette Backstrom did a nice job handling it."

Seniors Rhonda Moore and Stephanie Coe reigned double figures for BG, scoring 15 and 11 points, respectively.

Denine Birtcher led UT with 17 points, setting a school record by attempting 17 free throws in a single game. She connected on just nine.

Rockets shoot past cagers

by Tom Reed

TOLEDO - In the opening 12 minutes of Saturday's game, the University of Toledo built a solid foundation for victory by shooting 64 percent.

But Bowling Green helped supply the materials and aided in construction by throwing up more bricks than the Three Little Pigs ever imagined.

The Falcons hit just six of 27 shots from the field in the 12-minute span which allowed the Rockets to gain a 21-10 lead en route to a 74-62 Mid-American Conference win.

"You know what's bad?" BG coach John Weinert said. "When you shoot as bad as we did, they shoot as well as they did and still only lose by 12 points."

No, what's bad is when your hockey team has a better shooting percentage in the first 20 minutes than the basketball squad. In the icers' wild 9-7 triumph over Ohio State, the Falcons tallied on six of their first 14 shots.

Prior to intermission, BG's basketball team connected on 10 of 34 attempts for a putrid 29 percent. The Falcons, 4-10, 3-3 in the MAC, finished the contest with a 37 percent clip.

BG forward Steve Martenet, who notched 12 markers, said BG strayed from the shooting pattern which earned them three-straight wins entering the Toledo tilt.

"We got away from what was winning us ball games," Martenet said. "When we were winning, we got good shots out of our offensive design. Tonight, some of our shot selection was not good. And it showed because we shot poorly."

The Falcons were missing fade-away shots. They were missing short jump shots and star forward Anthony Robinson played as if he was missing in action.

"At times, it doesn't appear he's all out there," Weinert said. "I'm worried about Ant (Robinson), he had a sensational freshman year, but he's having some difficulty."

Robinson, who averaged 13 ppg last year, has logged just eight markers in the last two games, including a two-point effort against Eastern Michigan last Wednesday.

Robinson not only struggled offensively, but his inability to pressure UT forward Mark German sparked the Rockets early run.

The 6-7 German scored most of his 23 points on wide open baseline jump shots. He spearheaded Toledo's attack by canning four of his first five shots, including three straight midway through the half which staked the Rockets a 30-20 advantage. UT led 36-24 at intermission.

"They (the Falcons) were giving me that baseline shot and I took it," German said. "When you hit one or two early shots, that really gives you confidence."

In the second half, BG collapsed on German, but UT guard Bob Borchardt added to the Falcons' woe by scoring 12 of his 14 points.

"At halftime, coach (Bobby) Nichols told us that BG would be guarding German very tightly and told me to be ready to told them that our mental approach coming into the game wasn't right and that we needed to change it and play two periods of respectable hockey."

The Buckeyes outscored the Falcons again in the final period 3-2. Brian McKee and Wansbrough netted goals to counter the OSU onslaught of Mark Shortt, Eric Furland and Mad-dill.

The victory gave York the most wins by a BG coach, eclipsing the standard set by Ron Mason, now coaching Michigan State. (see related story same page.)

Friday's contest proved to be a poor preview for Saturday's contest, with a scoreless tie after one period. Duncan and Brent Regan staked BG to a 2-0 lead in the second period, with Regan scoring with the Falcons shorthanded. Mark Anderson made the score 2-1 before the period ended.

THE BUCKEYES got as close as 4-3 before Wansbrough put the game away with an empty-net goal with 16 seconds left in the game.

LaChappelle said that OSU's small rink produced plenty of contact and set the stage for two rough games.

"It was a rough game here (Columbus) and given the size of our rink, it's conducive to a physical game," he said. "The referee called a tight game but I don't think the fights, if you want to call them that, were because of frustration. I think they were because of the intensity of the game."

The Falcons, ranked second in the nation before the OSU series, upped their mark to 21-6 (19-4 in the CCHA) to remain in first place in the conference. BG meets St. Lawrence in a non-conference series Friday and Saturday in St. Lawrence.

York

Despite all the glory York received, being a collegiate hockey coach does have its problems, thus magnifying York's lengthy stay at BG.

"I'm just glad I'm still on speaking terms with the people in financial aid and the athletic director," York said. "If you don't have good communication with these people, you are not going to stay in one position very long."

"I'm proud of the fact I can go to these people and work with them in a positive aspect. We're running a program which doesn't believe in burning bridges. It is solid and should continue to stay that way."

Unlike former football coach Denny Stolz, who decided to move on to greener pastures, York is very content with his situation in northwest Ohio.

"I'm very comfortable and have positive feelings towards the local program," York said. "I have a tremendous job here and I'm not looking to go anywhere. I feel this is one of the top jobs in the country in college hockey."

"In football, the MAC (Mid-American Conference) and Big 10 are different levels of coaching. The CCHA is one of the top six programs in the country. The situation is much different in regards of hockey to football."

"I have a tremendous job here and I'm not looking to go anywhere. I feel this is one of the top jobs in the country in college hockey."

— Jerry York

Although York may be around for 161 more wins, prominent offers have been extended to the former All-American.

"The next level up is the National Hockey League," York said. "I have been contacted, but I am more interested in college. But who knows? Sixteen years ago I wasn't sure I wanted to come to this part of the country."

The reason for York's success became very apparent, Saturday.

With a six-goal lead midway through the first period, it seemed as though the Falcons could get by the Bucks the rest of the way with the guidance of a mere waterboy.

But game disqualifications handed to centers Brian Mc-harry and Greg Parks and a tremendous comeback by OSU swung the momentum dramatically. The Buckeyes closed to within one goal with just over two minutes remaining in the game.

Despite the rare problem, York dealt with the situation by changing lineups.

"We had to jockey our lines a lot," York said. "We have four centers but two of them were missing. That made it very difficult."

But Wansbrough's second goal of the game with less than a minute left, iced the victory and sent the second-ranked Falcons and their fans home happy.

"Our team is proud we can play four games with Ohio State and beat them each time," York said. "It took a lot of effort and emotion to win that game. How well you play the game isn't all that counts. The heart was there."

As long as York's heart is there, the life of BG's hockey team should continue to thrive well into the future.

BG tankers impressive in tri-meet

by Bridget Burdno
sports reporter

With few points to spare, Bowling Green's men's swimming team captured a victory against Toledo and Wright State Friday in BG's Cooper Pool.

"I keep telling the team they are better than they think they are and with the times Friday, they finally realized it," Draper said.

Dan Shaw broke a school record in the 1,000-yard free style with a time of 9:49.24, dropping almost ten seconds from his previous best time.

Bob Walker also swam very well, according to Draper, winning the 50 freestyle in 21.27. He then preceded to finish third in the 100 free-style with a time of 48.21.

Pete Szekeley captured two third places for the Falcons in the 200 butterfly, in 1:59.40, and the 200 breaststroke in 2:15.10.

The Falcons' relay team consisting of Tim Wagner, Pete and Les Szekeley, and Tim Griga won the 400 medley with a time of 3:37.6.

Chris Birnrich, Les Szeck-ley, Dane Burton, and Bob Walker won the 400 freestyle relay clocking a 3:08.85.

"The 400 freestyle relay will definitely be in the competition at the Mid-American Conference meet this year," Draper said. "The meet's not over until the last event is swam."

The Falcons proved this statement to be correct by winning the meet by a two-point spread in the last event.

"These guys just keep getting better and better," Draper said. "They are going to be ready for the MAC meet this year. Last year, we knocked on the door of the conference title. This year we are going to kick it down."

BG's next competition is at Eastern Michigan University Friday and Saturday. Conference members Ball State, Ohio University and Miami University are also competing.

BRIAN M. LEADS FALCONS TOWARD TOP OF MAC

No, it's not a headline left over from football season. Brian M. is Brian Miller, the scrappy senior guard who has lit a fire under the 1986 version of the '85-86 Falcon basketball team. Miller plays an intense, emotional brand of ball that has rubbed off on his teammates and has already produced three conference wins, leaving critics, media "experts" and favored teams in their wake.

The '86 Falcons, known as the Buzzer Beaters for their last second heroics in three conference wins, go for their third straight home win Wednesday night vs. Northern Illinois and their superstar Kenny Battle. The gates open at 5 pm with the women tipping off at 5:30 pm. The men's game starts at 8 pm. There's Old Milwaukee mugs for the first 1,000 fans. So, wear orange and support the Falcons in "The Year of Brian."

Miller shines in UT loss

by Ron Fritz
assistant sports editor

TOLEDO - Bowling Green guard Brian Miller won the battle, but once again, the University of Toledo's basketball team won the war.

Miller scored 25 points, including 19 in the second half, before fouling out with 3:58 left in the Rockets' 74-62 win over the Falcons Saturday.

The loss to UT in Centennial Hall, however, is nothing new for the 6-foot-1 senior. In four attempts on the Rockets' home court, Miller and BG are winless.

"It's so hard to play here (in Toledo)," Miller said. "I think this is the hardest place to play in the Mid-American Conference. The fans really get into the game."

For Miller though, playing in Toledo is a homecoming. As a high school senior at Toledo St. Johns, he averaged 21 points a game and was named City League Player of the Year.

His backcourt mate then, Bob Borchardt is a starting guard for the Rockets. Borchardt scored 14 points against the Falcons, including 12 in the second half. The two still remain close friends, but on the court is a different story.

"We have a friendly rivalry," Miller said. "On the court, though, I consider him just like any other opponent."

Borchardt said Miller talked all summer about beating the Rockets in Centennial Hall and at BG.

"The whole summer Brian joked about beating us twice," Borchardt said. "The way he played tonight, you could see he wanted to accomplish that goal."

"Brian is a great player," he said. "But it's not really a rivalry on the court. We're not enemies; the team has a great rivalry, not us."

Although Borchardt still remains a close friend of Miller, the Toledo fans aren't so fond of the Falcons' captain. With fans hurling insults at him, it was apparent they haven't forgiven Miller for not attending UT.

"I really never considered going to Toledo," Miller said. "I don't like their style of basketball."

BG coach John Weinert said the Rocket fans' reaction to Miller was similar to the response ex-Falcon star and Toledo native Marcus Newbern received when he played in Centennial Hall.

"Marcus and Brian really got it from the crowd," he said. "It's just that the city of Toledo doesn't like to lose any of its top high school athletes."

However, Miller said he didn't really notice the crowd once he got into the game.

"The crowd really doesn't bother me," he said. "It's almost like they aren't there."

The UT fans certainly haven't affected Miller's play in Centennial Hall. As a sophomore, he scored 10 points and dished out eight assists against the Rockets. Last year, he was benched and didn't play. His 25-point performance Saturday speaks for itself.

"Brian had a great second half," Weinert said. "He really took charge for us. His leadership qualities took over."

Not only are Miller's leadership qualities emerging, he has also developed into one of the MAC's top guards. This season, Miller is leading the Falcons with a 17.2 scoring average. Last week against Eastern Michigan, Miller tossed in a career-high 27 points. He has never averaged more than nine points a game in his BG career.

Despite the loss to the Rockets, Miller said the Falcons can still be in the top five in the MAC. A win over UT in BG would make that goal easier.

"I really think we are one of the top five teams in the MAC," Miller said. "But we are going to have to win most of our remaining games."

"I wish we would have won here (in Toledo)," he said. "I wanted to play well, but I wanted the team to win. We are definitely going to have to beat them at our place."

shoot," Borchardt said. "And that's what happened, my man sagged off me and I was open."

Borchardt capitalized on his freedom by popping three consecutive jumpers in the opening minutes of the second half to help the Rockets maintain a 12-point lead at 50-38.

"We shot very well tonight," Nichols said. "Borchardt and German both kept our shooting percentage up. German is getting better all the time."

The Rockets hit 53 percent of their shots in the second half, 55 percent for the game.

With Toledo strong shooting performance, only guard Brian Miller saved the Falcons from being routed. Miller, who registered 27 markers in the 73-72 victory against the Hurons, returned with a 25-point outing against UT.

The 6-2, senior kept the Falcons within striking distance by scoring 19 points in the second half.

"I wasn't trying to do it all, but I was the one who was hot down the stretch," Miller said. "I wish I could've hit those."

Unlike Borchardt and German, who relied exclusively on the jumper, Miller blended a variety of inside and outside shots.

Miller hit a short jump shot with 6:50 remaining to make it 62-49. He then stole a pass and scored on a driving layup. Miller drew BG within nine as he canned a long baseline jumper with 5:18 left.

Unfortunately, for the Falcons, Miller fouled out a minute later. After his departure BG never seriously threatened.
